NET ACTIVITY

The NKARC was put on standby Wednesday afternoon (Dec. 4). Neil Mays, WB4WSG - the club communications manager, received a call that the help of area hams with portable hand-held radios may be needed in the search for a lost hunter.

The hunter had been missing for two days in a remote area near the Boone-Gallatin County line. A pack of wild boars roams the area, and it was feared they may have killed the hunter.

Club members kept in contact on 146.58 mhz fm during the evening hours, ready to put the recently reorganized club call-up procedure to action. The officials conducting the search evidently had enough volunteers, as no further word was heard. The hunter was still missing Friday (Dec. 6).

AWARDS

Two area amateurs have received a Public Service Award for their participation in the April Tornado disaster. Neil Mays, WB4WSG, and Gary Johnston, WB4FAT, received the awards for handling traffic on the low band nets.

You're getting two issues combined - a late Dec. and an early Jan. issue.

PATENT APPLICANT

For the past six years, Joe Rice, W4RHZ, has been pursuing a patent for a system of stereo on the standard BC band. He has done all the work himself - from the design to acting as his own attorney.

Now comes to amateur radio may not know of W4RHZ - one of the real pioneers of radio in this area. Joe's main interest at present is in measuring frequencies, on which he recently gave a talk at the local GCARA meeting. And you probably won't find anyone that can copy morse code faster than he can.

Joe has built most of his own equipment which, to pick only one incident, he used in 1968 in the Falmouth tornado. He was first on the scene and was the only communication link out of the Kentucky town, operating on 6 mtr am.

W4RHZ has worked as engineer for just about every radio station in the area at one time or other. And all this without any formal electronics schooling.

We'll have the first hand story by W4RHZ on his patent endeavor in next months newsletter.

AMATEUR SPIRIT

We often hear the term 'Amateur Spirit' tossed about but seldom do we take time to think about its meaning. It's when you QRS for a brand-new novice you help a fellow ham troubleshoot his transmitter you let your supper get cold so you can run a patch for a serviceman to his wife here in the states

you reminisce with an old-timer about 'the good old days' when no one else seems to be listening to him you travel 35 miles out of your way to visit that friendly fellow you've been chewing the rag with all winter on 75 meters you mail parts for a new rig to your DX buddy in Africa you handle traffic to or from a disaster area when you really don't have the time you ATTEND YOUR CLUB MEETINGS even though that movie you didn't want to miss on t.v.

Yes, OM, its when you do any of these things, or any number of others that give you that warm feeling like you're settling back in your chair with your pipe and coffee, and ready to fire up on the 'south end' of 20 with a CQ. And you can be proud ('cuz this clubs' got it!)
